Presto Printer

Summary: Get 'Gram' email by having printer print it automatically.

After spending about $10K on computers and networking costs over the past 10 years, my family has given up trying to get my grandmother online. We have all tried and I do believe she tried but in the end it has just never worked out.

So....I found this printing device from Presto that comes with an email address and anyone can send email to the printer. This way Gram just has to walk over and pick up her 'Inbox' every morning and read it. True there is the drawback that she can't reply but she knows how to do that via snail mail, something us Grandkids are not good at. Everyone wins!

The device is about $100 though they have had rebates all over the board this past week. And you need to get yearly service which costs about $130. Much better deal than a computer and paying for a DSL connection.
